Torrid Weather Fails to Check Interest in Whist Parties—
Automobile Ride to Revere Affords Pleasant
Hot Weather Pastime

A very successful whist party was held in Ballardvale last Friday evening under the direction of the Knights of Columbus and Court St. Monica, Mrs. Frank McDonald and Joseph L. Burns being in charge. Twenty tables were set for whist and later in the evening dancing was enjoyed in the Community room with music furnished by the Melody Six, all young men in Ballardvale. The whist was held on the lawn in front of the Community rooms which was lighted with electric lights for the occasion.

The prize winners were as follows: Miss Lola Riley, hot water bottle; Mrs. Thomas O'Donnell, glass dish; Miss Julia Schofield, embroidered towel; Miss Bessie Geagan, bag of flour; Miss Rena Lefebvre, two packages of raisins; Miss Rosa Lefebvre, pair of candlesticks; Miss Catherine McFallon, vanity case; Miss Gwendolyn Fallon, luncheon set; Mrs. Rose Bussey, six glasses; Miss Helen Driscoll, pound of coffee; Mrs. Thomas Brucato, incense burner; Mrs. Alfred Frotten, Chinese basket; consolation, Miss Josephine Lane.

Leo Driscoll, silk socks; John Cussen, ten pounds of sugar; Edward Eldred, silk stockings; James McDonald, safety razor; Louis Lefebvre, eversharp pencil; Joseph Langley, silk socks; Henry Dolan, cards in case; Edward Lefebvre, water bottle; consolation, Thomas Doyle.

Following the whist party, several prizes on which books have been issued by the K. of C. building fund were drawn, and the following were the winners: Smoking set, Edgar Kerwin of Stevens street; manicure set, Mrs. J. Dugan of 128 North Main street; suit-length of cloth, Thomas Cady of 457 Essex street, Lawrence.

The biggest whist party of the season conducted under the auspices of the Catholic organizations in town was held Tuesday evening on the lawn at Dr. W. D. Walker's home, Miss Lucy Lassus and Mrs. Annie Qualey being the hostesses. The lawn was lighted with electric lights and during the evening refreshments of punch and cake were served.

Whist was played at thirty tables. The following were the prize winners: Mrs. John Tatrow, water set of pitcher and six glasses; Mrs. F. J. Shiebler, set of six glasses; Miss Grace Abercrombie, embroidered towel; Mrs. Edgar Kerwin, bulb dish; Miss Elizabeth Doherty, vase; Mrs. George Killackey, bulb dish; Miss Helen Driscoll, talcum powder; Miss Agnes Doherty, fancy handkerchief; Mrs. William Bracwell, towel; Mrs. Bertha Simons, fancy handkerchief; Mac Fallon, bud vase; consolation, Miss Julia Schofield.

Peter P. A. Hall, hose supporters; Henry Dolan, five pounds of sugar; William Farrell, necktie; William McDonald, necktie; Edward Lefebvre, dozen eggs; Leo Driscoll, ash tray; George Eastwood, cigar holder; Stephen Castle, pound of tea.

James McSwiggan was the lucky winner

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Old Andover Residents Renew Vows at Altar—Family and Friends Gather to Share in Happy Celebration

Past the three-score-and-ten milestone, Mr. and Mrs. David Cunningham of Shaw-shen road reached another mark in their journey through life together on Saturday, when they celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding. Gathered about them were their children and grandchildren and many of their lifelong friends.

In the morning at nine o'clock they renewed their vows of fifty years ago by attending mass celebrated by Rev. John A. Nugent at St. Augustine's church. During the service appropriate music was rendered by the organist, Miss Annie G. Donovan.

With a blessing from Fr. Nugent the golden wedding party repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham and on the lawn of the house in which Mr. Cunningham was born, a wedding breakfast was served by Caterer Thomas E. Rhodes to fifty persons.

The guests all wore marigolds in recognition of the golden anniversary. Many gifts were received by the happy couple including fifty dollars in gold from their sons.

David Cunningham and Miss Catherine McCarron, a native of Lowell, were married on August 4, 1874, by Rev. Fr. Michael O'Brien, in St. Patrick's church, Lowell. For forty-eight years they have lived in Andover. Mr. Cunningham is engineer at the Marland Mills of M. T. Stevens & Sons Co., and for forty-five years has been a faithful and trusted employee. They have four sons, James, of Boston; Frank C. of Dorchester; Joseph C., of Chicago and Thomas Cunningham of Lawrence; two daughters, Miss Nellie Cunningham and Miss Louise Cunningham of Andover; and several grandchildren, Robert, Claire, James Fleming, Anita Kathleen, Walter Eugene and Lillie Cunningham. Visitors to the home to congratulate the couple during the day included Rev. Fr. Green of Chicago, Ill., Rev. Frs. John A. Nugent and Thomas P. Fogarty of St. Augustine's Church of Andover; Mr. and Mrs. Roddy of Providence, John Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill and family and Mr. and Mrs. McCann and family of Lowell as well as guests from many other places.

Distinguished Visitor in Andover

Liang Shin-Yi, former premier of China, who is making a tour of the world, was a visitor in Andover on Tuesday. He was graduated from Phillips academy in the Class of 1881 and enjoyed visiting the scenes of his schooldays and meeting old friends. He is considered one of China's greatest financiers and has arranged several loans, all of which were promptly paid. To be the president of China is one of his ambitions.

PASSES 82nd MILESTONE

Andover's Veteran Color Bearer Will Attend National G.A.R. Encampment
in Boston Next Week

John Cummings, veteran color bearer of Gen. William F. Bartlett Post, 99, G.A.R. was eighty-two years young Monday, but he didn't know it was his birthday until some one sent him a card. "I had forgotten all about it's being my birthday," he said.

"Yes, I'm eighty-two, but still able to carry Old Glory." He has borne aloft his country's flag in the Memorial Day parades in Andover for twenty-one consecutive years. In addition to this service, he is also senior vice commander of the local post.

John Cummings was born in Ireland on August 4, 1843 and three years later arrived in America and with his parents went to Colorado, settling in Denver. When the Civil War broke out he was in New York state and enlisted in the 4th New York Infantry, Company I. There was little preliminary training before his regiment was ordered South.

He struck into the hottest of the conflict with the Army of the Potomac, helped to bear the brunt of the fierce fighting at South Mountain, Fredericksburg, Antietam, Chancellorsville and the Wilderness. He was wounded at Antietam and also at Fredericksburg but refused to allow the army surgeon to amputate his fingers.

Then came Lee's surrender followed by the cessation of hostilities and the veteran was again free to go back to civilian life. But he didn't. He enlisted in the old 9th infantry for five years and in 1871, when his term expired, re-enlisted in the regulars and went fighting the Indians. Under Generals Custer and Stanley, he spent five years battling the crafty Sioux in Montana, Idaho and Montana.

Comrade Cummings well remembers the Custer Massacre. By chance he was out of camp on other duties and thereby escaped being with the cavalry when the U. S. troops were ambushed and cut to pieces by Sitting Bull and his braves.

The third concert in the series of the Chamber of Commerce will be given tonight on the park by McDonnell's band of Lawrence. This organization was formerly Foss band and under Fred Foss was the band of the 16th regiment Massachusetts State Guard during the war and well known to the residents of this town.

Under Fred Foss and more recently with H. L. McDonnell as director, the band has made a very enviable reputation in this section and its personnel includes several former players in Sousa's band. An excellent program has been arranged which includes classical, popular and old-time selections. A request number has already been sent in by a number of the former State guardsmen of Co. H for "Invercargill" the favorite march of the 16th regiment while in camp at Framingham.

Tags will be for sale at the park and in order to make the fourth concert a certainty, with the engagement of the most famous band in the state, the committee hopes the response will be very generous. Contributions may also be sent to William C. Crowley, treasurer.

The program:

March Et Cortez—La Reine De Sabas Gownad
Overture—Il Guarany Gownad
Fantasia—Songs from The Old Folks Gownad
Selection—The Bohemian Girl Bu Ji
Brass Quartette—Selected

Messrs. Rowell, Chick, Brown, Weller
Suite—Don Quixote Saffronah
Popular Medley
Waltz—Vienna Life Strass
Cornet Solo—Selected

Mr. Howard L. Rowell
Grand Selection—Songs of Scotland Lamp
Finale—Stars and Stripes Forever Sonas

He has many good stories to tell of his life in the West after the Civil War. He related the story of Calamity Jane and how she came by that name. She had done notable work as a nurse among the soldiers of Uncle Sam in the Indian's country and when General Egan was badly wounded, they sent for her. She made a special trip of 200 miles and her care restored the general to health. Praising her wonderful ability as a nurse he said, "What a Calamity it would have been if Jane hadn't come." And "Calamity Jane" she was called from that day.

Mrs. Cummings is just as ardent a supporter of the S. of V. Camp Auxiliary, as her husband is of Post 99, and gives much of her time and effort to these organizations. They have one son of whom any parents might justly be proud. He shipped before the mast in Uncle Sam's navy and rose steadily until today he is commander of a torpedo destroyer flotilla and is at the present time stationed in China but expects to return here in the fall. Arthur H. Cummings has been in service continually for twenty years, served through the World war, was attacked by and escaped from submarines and was ensign on the Seattle which conveyed the first A. E. F. troops to France in 1917. Promotion to lieutenant of junior and senior grades and captain followed in rapid succession and by hard work, and perseverance and application to his duties is climbing the ladder. Father and son have followed the flag of Uncle Sam and both have honorable records.

National Cathedral A Tenth Done;
Masterpiece Of Gothic Architecture

RISING on Mt. St. Alban, 400 feet above Washington, D. C., the National Cathedral will dominate the skyline of the capital when it is completed five years hence. It is now one tenth completed. Workmen are shown at work on the vaulting of the choir aisles. Farther down are sculptors working on the carving for this monument, in which Woodrow Wilson lies buried. Different forms of cathedral architecture developed out of the problem of how to support a stone roof. Romanesque architects solved it by massive walls. Gothic master builders distributed the loads by intersecting ribs in the vaulting so they were supported primarily by flying buttresses outside the walls. This allows a maximum number of windows. When the first Gothic churches were built, the buttresses were covered over. When the beauty of their lines and towers were appreciated craftsmen labored lovingly to make them perfect in every detail and to symbolize growth and life. The National Cathedral is expected to be one of the most beautiful pieces of Gothic architecture in the world and will also rank among the largest.

MAJESTIC

"Poppy," which came to the Majestic theatre (Boston) August 4, after a year's run at the Apollo theatre, New York, with W. C. Fields as star, is Philip Goodman's first complete offering of his own. Last year he was a fifty per cent owner of "The Old Soak," and the full power behind the propaganda which finally induced Don Marquis to put his columnar character on the stage.

As to "Poppy," Mr. Goodman got the idea firmly implanted in his mind that W. C. Fields, who he had long admired as a silent comedian in vaudeville, as well as in "The Follies" and "The Scandals," would be equally entertaining, if not more so, in the field of spoken comedy. After considerable pressure had been brought to bear upon Mr. Fields, who is that strange creature, a really modest actor, he agreed to accept the role of Eustace McGargle in "Poppy." The rest is, as the saying goes, history. Score one more for Philip Goodman's hunches.

Mr. Goodman has some very interesting plans for coming seasons. In the immediate future he will present a musical comedy by Jerome Kern and Edgar Selwyn, starring Genevieve Tobin, Oscar Shaw and Walter Gattlett, and a comedy of American life by Dorothy Parker and Elmer Rice.

WILBUR

"Little Jessie James," L. Lawrence Weber's delightful musical comedy, the rage of New York and now at the Wilbur (Boston) for a definite limited engagement after its one-year run with the New York cast is speedily, full of clever lines and songs, and is naughty, but nice. Most of the plot centers about a disappearing bed in the home of two gay but impecunious young bachelors. What will endear this charming show to a large majority, however, is the fact that no demure chit of an ingenue sings any songs about a "silver lining" or "sunshine coming after the rain" — you know what is meant.

There is but one sentimental song in the show — "I Love You" — and they do say that's the song that made love famous. L. Lawrence Weber, producer of the attraction, is an excellent judge of comedy and he has surrounded the play with an excellent cast, including Allen Kerns, Laura Hamilton Al Raymond, Miriam Hopkins, Gladys Baxter, John Hundley, Clara Thropp, Evan Valentine and Madeline Grey. "The James Girls" said to be Broadway's cleverest chorus, and "The James Boys," a Paul Whiteman Band, who are so decidedly in a class by themselves that they are an integral part of the production and distinctly one of the most attractive features.

The book and lyrics are by Harlan Thompson, music by Harry Archer and the play was staged by Walter Brooks. The entire production was personally supervised by William B. Friedlander. Boston is the only New England town in which "Little Jessie James" is to be seen this season.

There are more cars that need new drivers than there are drivers that need new cars.

Here is a Loaf of Good Health!

And surely nothing in the world is more enjoyable than good health. 20TH CENTURY CREAM BREAD is baked fresh every hour. This loaf of wholesome, delicious bread has proven a great aid to the busy women here in Andover and a pleasing addition to their table. Order it regularly EVERY day and have the FRESHEST loaf your grocer sells.

$1000 DOUGHNUTS are fine for dessert, or for the picnic luncheon. Packed six in a carton—and sold by all grocers.

ALASKAN SPONGE CAKE is as delicious as your own loaf of sponge cake. You will find it just great for unexpected guests.

20th Century Cream Bread Pays Big Dividends in Good Health!

Matches and Gas

One of the departments of the National City Bank of New York became interested in the subject of matches and on investigation it was found that last year the world used about 4,675,650,000,000 matches, worth in the neighborhood of $200,000,000. An authority in London reported that the people of Europe used from six to ten matches per capita per day and another home authority found that the world consumption of matches was seven per day per capita. Applied to a world population of 1,830,000,000, this estimate results in the annual production as given. About one-third of this total originated in the United States, the largest producer, while one-fifth came from Sweden, the same proportion from Japan, and 15 per cent from Great Britain. In this country there is invested in the manufacture of matches about $30,000,000 by twenty-two companies, turning out $30,000,000 worth of product.

Comparing this with the census figures from the same report relating to manufactured gas we find that the value of the product of our gas industry was only 14 times as much as the value of matches made. In other words, if we used gas with the same prodigality we enjoy with matches, not enough gas could be made to supply the demand. A match is useful only to start something; it is the gas that renders the service, the tobacco that provides the smoke, or the wood that starts the furnace. Nevertheless, no one protests at the cost of a match, although they may wax indignant over a gas bill or the price of coal. If all these matches were laid side by side and end to end they would form a belt 75 feet wide around the world.

She Said She Wanted News and This Is What She Read

As they are assayed in the minds of newspaper readers, news values vary. The managing editor of a nationally known newspaper gave the following as a "motion picture" of his wife reading her husband's handwork:

Glances at headlines announcing Rockefeller's gift of insulin to the University of Pennsylvania. Has a vague notion as she passes quickly to next column that insulin has something to do with electric wiring. Skims heavily reference to coup of German junkers with the thought that junk dealers in Germany receive too much attention in the press.

Italy being under hot fire of League of Nations leaves her cold as Senators' prediction of a complete European collapse. She had an idea all that sort of thing was in Japan.

The ZR-1 on a 1000-mile trial trip fails to produce the necessary interest. They give those submarines or airships or whatever they are such absurd names.

Reference to the housing situation likely to become a national calamity receives scant attention from her. No news in that, she remarks.

Editorial comment on divorce promises to hold her attention, but the article contains only statistics and is dismissed with a sniff. The political outlook for 1924 she passes up as it appears to her almost as involved as it did to the correspondent who used up telegraph tolls on it.

The only item on the sports page which claims a brief moment is the headline about the Papyrus race. She turns the page with the thought that the sports page is a queer place to discuss race questions.

Quotations on government securities and what credit men see ahead for business do not appear to intrigue her.

On the last page she discovers an article on what the harnessing of electricity in the boudoir has done to make beautiful women more beautiful, by waving more wavy already wavy hair, and she settles happily to read every word of it.

And so, the day is made for her.

Gone Are the Days of Trolley Trips

Gone are the good old days of trolley riding when mother took her six girls and one boy, who generally raised a riot until he got the end seat, and with basket lunches and miles of spindles trotted to the beach or country for a week-end outing. Trolley riding is no longer a national pastime, and many of our once favorite amusement parks are forgotten. In this age even the thrill of the roller coaster is no longer the peak of dizziness and daring. Mother does not sit breathless in the pavilion near the start waiting the return of her loved ones. Her six girls do not sniff at smelling salts during the whirl, and the one boy is now truthful in his indifference.

Grown-Ups Need to Play

Grown-ups, as well as children, need to play. What their play should be, depends upon the kind of work they do. Office workers, and others with sedentary positions, should choose various forms of athletics for their play. Too strenuous exercise should not be taken all of a sudden, but the person should gradually work up a program of play.

The summer time is the recognized time to play. Care should be taken, however, to use common sense in vacation time. It should also be the time to rest, to build up the body for the winter's work.

An Ice-Making Machine Saved the Inventor

By WALTER DELANEY

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"SORRY, my friend, but you are about ten years too late." "Then my invention is worthless?" inquired Ned Darrow in a tone of the deepest disappointment.

Young Darrow uttered a sigh of regret. He proceeded to put back in its leather case a device about two feet square. It was made up of coils, a glass jar, wires and tubes, a receptacle for sulphuric acid and a cranking attachment. By starting the sulphuric acid in motion by turning the crank, within a few minutes' time the quart of water in the condenser would become a solid cake of ice.

"I built so many hopes upon it!" murmured Darrow. "Everybody at home in the little country town where I lived encouraged me," and the honest blue eyes bore a trace of suspicious moisture. "There's a sweet little girl will be the worst disappointed. Poor Nellie!"

"I wouldn't give up so easily if I were you," said the lawyer in a sympathetic tone. "Why don't you work something out of it in a small way?"

"As how, now?" queried Ned, with flickering hope.

"Well, try some remote country. It would be new there."

"Can't you suggest a place?"

"Take Australia, for instance. Or Japan. South America, too, might prove a profitable field."

"I'll try it—I won't give up!" announced Ned Darrow determinedly.

There was a pathetic parting with Nellie Wyman, and sad but hopeful Ned found himself aboard an ocean steamer headed for the antipodes.

It was smooth and pleasant sea progress until the Arcturus came within five hundred miles of her destination, the city of Melbourne. A terrific storm arose and crew and passengers were hurried to the lifeboats.

"No baggage allowed!" announced the captain of the steamer sternly, as Ned started to enter one of the boats, his precious invention and its operating accessories in the leather case.

He was bound to save his machine, whatever came. This decision prevented his getting into the lifeboats. At last a lurch of the steamer sent him nearly overboard. He seized a safety plank and with it dropped into the water. Amid the high waves and the blackness of the night he drifted alone across a fathomless stretch of waters.

Almost famished and perishing from cold and exposure, the next morning at daybreak Ned was washed ashore. Revived and encouraged, he was about to line the coast, hoping to come upon some settlement, when with hideous yell he burst from a near thicket a score or more of dusky, half-naked savages.

Ned was bound hand and foot, placed upon a litter and carried through what suggested an interminable jungle.

After twelve hours of steady traveling they reached the royal palace, it seemed. At least Ned was carried within the structure, where upon a gaudy throne sat a thick-lipped, greased and painted savage.

From the hungry way in which this rubicund monarch viewed him, Ned decided that he would soon be roasted and eaten. The curiosity and interest of King Obi, however, were next fixed upon the leather case that contained the ice-freezing device.

He ordered it opened. Then he began fingering the cogs and wheels of the machine. The clicking as he turned the crank tickled his childish nature. He glanced at Ned, bobbed his head and grunted, as if to say:

"What is this?"

Ned bobbed vigorously, as if assenting to show the king what the machine could do. His hands were cut. He set the device in position, filled the acid receptacle and taking out the glass that held the water indicated by motions that it be filled with water.

Then Ned turned the crank. All hands in the royal court watched him raptly. Their eyes bulged as at the end of eight minutes he drew out a pound cake of ice.

"Hoo! hoo!" shouted the king, as the ice was handed to him, and he dropped the unusual substance from his fingers as though it were a piece of red-hot iron.

But once his royal highness cooled the drink at his side and enjoyed its rare freshness, he virtually appointed Ned ice purveyor to the crown.

Ned knew that his life was now surely safe. For a week he catered to the palate of King Obi. Then the sulphuric acid supply ran out. Ned explained to Obi that he would have to go to the nearest settlement to replenish it. By signs he made a bargain with the king that he was to furnish him an escort, give him his liberty and he would secure the acid and give him the ice-maker.

So it was arranged, and in payment for the same Obi handed Ned a little sack full of diamonds.

One day two months later, well-dressed, almost a capitalist, with bright face and a happy heart, Ned appeared at the office of the patent lawyer to pay him the fee for advice. The attorney had refused to accept it when Ned was poor. The latter related his strange story.

"And now, I suppose," smiled the lawyer, "you are going to expand your invention in a large way?"

"Yes," replied Ned, "after I have married Nellie."

Poultry Show at Essex County Fair

Let's go! Let's exhibit! Help make our County Poultry Show bigger and better than ever before. Last year's show totalled 1,100 birds. Now is the time to look over your young stock, pick out some good-looking and finish them off for the show. Classes for all breeds and varieties. Remember we had a big Utility class last year and look for another this year. Premium list and entry blanks will be ready shortly.

Have you a neighbor or a friend whom you think would like to exhibit? If so, send the name and address to the Secretary and a premium list will be sent.

Remember the dates of the Show, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, September 17, 18, 19 and 20, 1924.

The Essex Agricultural Society's Wednesday evening dances at the Topsfield Fair Grounds are proving to be exceedingly interesting and popular. Last week, Geraldine Durkee of Salem, of the Miss Harriet James's pupils gave a very beautiful exhibition of fancy dancing. This week, Miss Margaret Sheedy, another of Miss James's pupils will give an exhibition. It is the intention of the society to have some special feature every Wednesday evening.

Rapid progress is being made and substantial improvements are on the way at the Fair Grounds for this year's fair. Everything will be in readiness for September 17.

Essex County Agricultural School Notes

The building formerly occupied by the Homemaking Department has now been reduced to a single-story building. The roof has been rebuilt and made waterproof. Mechanics are engaged in putting up plastering. The building will be ready for occupancy September 2.

The Homemaking department of the school will resume class work on Tuesday, September 2. On this date new students will also be admitted to the agricultural class. Four weeks later, September 29, the upper class students in the agricultural department will return for classroom work. The extra month is given to allow them to complete their summer's work.

Evan Roberts of Topsfield, Class of 1924, has a very commendable project for his senior year. The project covers work in fruit, vegetable gardening and dairying on a rather large scale. He is working on a farm of 150 acres which contains a large orchard which Roberts has pruned and sprayed. He, with his father, have about twenty acres of truck garden to care for including squash, corn, cabbage, tomatoes, etc. Besides the orchards and garden there are seven cows to care for. This student has a real project because he is keeping records and accounts of the various farm transactions, and is applying knowledge gained at school to the actual farm problems that daily arise. With such a project as this, one cannot doubt when the student reports a total of eighty hours weekly.

A tour of Essex County poultrymen will be held on Tuesday, August 12th. Poultrymen will assemble at the school at 1:30 p.m. where a short meeting will be held. Stops will be made in North Andover, Ballardvale and Methuen where the largest poultry plant in the East with over 30,000 chickens on range will be visited. Come and bring your neighbors Tuesday, August 12.

The annual Junior Club Field Day will be held on the school grounds on Saturday, August 16. County Club Agent DeQuoy, has arranged an all-day program including athletic sports, agricultural identification contests and trips about the school farm. All Essex County boys and girls together with their parents and friends are invited to spend the day at Hathorne.

Knocks the Spots

Here is an important household aid: To remove grease spots from carpets and rugs, rub talcum powder into the spot. The powder will absorb the grease or oil. Then run the vacuum cleaner over the powder and the spot will disappear into the lungs of the cleaner. If the grease has become hard, run a hot iron over the spot after the powder has been applied. The iron will soften the grease and the vacuum cleaner will do the rest.

Andover Cubs Win

On the playground Tuesday night two local junior teams, the Andover Cubs and Andover All Stars played a close and exciting game, the Cubs fighting their way to a 6-5 win made possible by the fine batting of Chris Murphy. The All Stars had a 4-1 lead up to the fourth but the Cubs came back with four runs in their half and adding one more in the fifth. The Stars made a big hit in the seventh and scored one tally but their rally failed to stop the fast Cubs from winning.

The teams: Andover Cubs—Ronan, p.; Batheider c.; Baker lb.; Gibson 2b.; Sken 3b.; R. Murphy s.s.; Burbine lf.; Timony c.f.; C. Murphy r.f.

All Stars—McKeon p.; Urban c.; W. Dwyer lb.; E. Dwyer 2b.; M. Taylor 3b.; A. Polgren s.s.; Robinson lf.; Hutchinson c.f. and Hurwitch r.f.

The score by innings:

Cubs	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total
All Stars	1	0	0	4	1	0	0	0	0	6
	0	3	0	1	0	0	1	0	1	5

Use and Abuse

The difference between use and abuse is only one syllable, but as the blackface comedian remarked of the burnt cork, it puts an entirely new face on the matter. Few people have had the pleasure of ambling contentedly through life without encountering the gloomy prefix; it lurks in the neglected corners of every undertaking and takes an unwholesome delight in popping out as often as some oversight gives it the opportunity. That this is pretty often, Andover is discovering to her regret, for although a generous margin of error is allowable in any course of action, too frequent a trespass of that margin is apt to become a nuisance after a while.

Many people have given some evidence of this fact lately in their comments upon the occasional abuse of the playground recently opened on the lands of the Punchedard School. The swings, shoot-the-chutes, and other facilities designed for the recreation of the children seem to hold an equal attraction for older boys. The amusements are preempted by lads with long pants and a speaking acquaintance with the razor, while the youngsters have to stand around and look on until it suits the whim of the usurpers to yield place to them. The playground, in other words, is forced to exceed its function, at the cost of the smaller youngsters and at a corresponding sacrifice of the purpose for which it was created.

No doubt this unfortunate state of affairs is not the result of any malicious forethought, for youth is not prone to thought of any kind, malicious or otherwise, but the violation of the playstead's essential aim is no less flagrant and no less uncorrected for all that. Pomp's Pond offers the larger boys a type of diversion more suited to their age and size than lawn swings and sand boxes, and it is to be assumed that they can find more congenial vents for their vacation energy there than in the domain of their minors. Such, apparently, is the opinion of the Board of Public Works, as it has already deliberated seriously upon this problem and has discussed measures which, when put into effect, will make the casual supervision that now prevails—or fails to prevail—more continuous and rigid.

In this connection, it would be gratifying if the Board could extend its activities to the bus service which has been established by the kindness of Mr. Cross between Andover Square and Pomp's Pond. In view of the private nature of this undertaking any attempt at regulation of it other than a vigorous endorsement of helping suggestions might appear to be an unwarranted presumption; and yet Mr. Cross's chief motive in establishing the service is being perverted by the same unthinking selfishness that mars the usefulness of the playground. Mothers with young children, for whose advantage the arrangement was primarily intended, are often obliged to yield precedence to a crowd of boisterous, irresponsible fun-hunters intent only upon their own pleasure and unhampered in the scramble for place by anything more than a bathing suit. If a sense of common courtesy is unequal to govern the situation, one of our representatives of Law and Order might find here occasion to exercise the latter half of his twin functions.

The borderline between use and abuse, as before indicated, is thinly defined and easily liable to trespass. A certain amount of minor transgressions can be regarded with indulgence; they are not wholly foreign to the most thoughtful and considerate. But the more glaring violations of privilege and right are unmerited reflections upon the source from which these issued, and argue a lack of appreciation and a disregard for the comfort of others which it would be no more than a kindness, as well as a duty, to correct.

Andover Is Let off Easy

Yesterday's thunder shower which wrought such havoc in nearby towns did little damage in Andover, leaving in its wake windrows of leaves and small branches but very little rain.

A small garage in West Parish, owned by Paul Ward was blown over but it was not seriously damaged and can be returned to its foundations.

The shower yesterday came as a climax to a week of high temperatures such as Andover seldom experiences. The showers of Wednesday and Thursday caused no break in the hot wave and no relief from the protracted drought.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Bakery Sale

The courage of the members of the Women's Auxiliary to Andover Post 8, American Legion was sufficient to enable them to prepare a fine array of home-cooked food in spite of yesterday's heat and many housekeepers were glad to supply the family larder from the tempting display which they found in Ames' butter store. The money realized will be used to defray the expense of delegates to the State convention to be held in Worcester, August 28, 29, and 30. The delegates appointed are Mrs. Frank Foster, Mrs. Freeman Abbott, Mrs. Fred Cheney, and Mrs. Ralph Berry with Mrs. Harry Gouck as alternate. In addition to the home-cooked food, sweet peas were on sale for the benefit of the children of disabled soldiers. The members of the committee in charge of the sale were Mrs. Ralph Berry, chairman; Mrs. John Henderson, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Joshua Hilton, Mrs. Minnie Rodgers and Mrs. Frank Foster.

Storm Interrupts Shoot

The weekly shoot of the Andover Fish and Game club at their traps on Morton street was interrupted by the thunder storm Wednesday evening. Several of the members were unable to complete their scores.

James Purcell was high gun and broke 43 out of 50 birds. Raymond Buchanan was a close second with 42 out of 50.

Communication

 To the Editor of the Andover Townsman:
 There is but one answer to the question raised in your editorial column last week in reference to the refund to the town on account of the tuberculosis hospital. The money was taken arbitrarily from the taxpayers of Andover; it should be returned to them in the form of a lowered tax rate. There need be no equivocation about this whatever. The customer was overcharged; he should receive a credit. This is not a gift, not a bounty, not something for nothing, it is simply money taken from Andover taxpayers by mistake and the mistake is rectified when the money is returned.

Don't spend wit and space suggesting how money can be spent by the town. An army of volunteers (some with uniforms) will arise from comfortable seats to do that happy job, but rather show how money can be saved (and why), and thus become a part of a small, unappreciated, unpaid, and rather well-cursed group. C.

At Camp Kiwanis

Several of the girls of the Cochichewick Camp Fire are spending two weeks at the big Camp Fire camp in South Hanson, Camp Kiwanis, where they are enjoying life in the open and meeting old friends. The girls made the trip last Saturday, accompanied by their counselor, Mrs. Harold Austin. Two of the girls expect to stay a month at the camp.

Those who went from Andover were Catherine Crox, Polly Francis, Doris Manning, Jean Harrington, Barbara Folk, Grace Hadley, Olive Warden and Dorothy Wade.

Treasurer of Lovren Company Displays Unusual Enterprise

Fred E. Batcheller, now the treasurer of The Lovren Co. Inc., of Hillsboro, N. H., formerly a resident of Andover, has evidently lost none of his "old time pep and energy." One of the local mills there was shut down a week for vacation and repairs. On Saturday morning it was discovered that one of the buildings needed new sills. It was necessary to start up again on Monday morning. Nothing large enough or long enough to make the repairs was to be had in town. Mr. Batcheller's company, which in addition to manufacturing wooden heels, dowels and toys, also operates a lumber yard, was appealed to. Men were sent into the woods at about 9:45 in the morning, and at noon the necessary timber had been cut hauled to their mill, sawed, and was on the way to the factory to be installed in the afternoon.

Will Attend National Encampment

Gen. William F. Bartlett post 99, G. A. R., and also its Women's Relief Corps will be represented at the National G. A. R. Encampment to be held in Boston next week.

Henry B. Clukey, commander and John Cummings senior vice commander and color bearer for the past thirty years, will take part in the big parade of 10,000 veterans of the Civil war.

Great preparations have been made for the entertainment of the veterans and the local Women's Relief Corps has raised a substantial sum of money toward the fund. Mrs. Charles S. Buchan, installing and instituting officer of the state department, and Mrs. Annie S. Davis, president of the local corps, will attend the Relief corps convention which also meets in Boston next week.

Reappointed District Deputy

Frank S. McDonald, assistant postmaster, has been reappointed district deputy of the 10th district which includes the Knights of Columbus councils of Lawrence 67, Haverhill 202, Wakefield 104, and Reading 1301. He has already served two years.

Mr. McDonald, who is grand knight of Andover council, is one of the most active and prominent members of the order in this section. He has been a leader for a number of years in Andover council and it was chiefly through his efforts that the new quarters on Chestnut street were secured. For two years he has given largely of his time and effort in devising ways and means of clearing off the debt on the new building and of raising money for future extensions. He is a charter member of Andover council.

Weddings
TIBBETTS—EATON
 Mr. and Mrs. Horace Eaton of Bartlett street announce the marriage of their daughter, Eva Harriet Eaton, and Ralph Tibbetts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tibbetts of Haverhill. The ceremony which was performed by Rev. John Cummings took place in Hampton, N. H., on July 19.

Mrs. Tibbetts has been employed for several years in the office of the Tyer Rubber company. Mr. Tibbetts is employed as an accountant in Boston. For the present, they will make their home with the bride's parents at 21 Bartlett street.

OUILLET—BOURASSA

The wedding of Miss Valeda Bourassa of 2 Brechin Terrace and Alcide Ouillet of 189 Enmet street, Lawrence, took place Monday morning at a nuptial mass, celebrated at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. T. F. Fogarty in St. Augustine's church. The couple were attended by Numa Ouillet and Thomas Bourassa, fathers of the contracting parties.

A wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony, and the couple left later on a wedding trip, after which they will live in Lawrence.

DUTTON—KRESS

At the Parker street M. E. Church, Lawrence at four o'clock on Wednesday, Miss Vera Mabelle Kress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kress of Lowell street, West Parish, and Harold E. Dutton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Dutton of Salem street, Lawrence, were united in marriage by Rev. Wesley Wiggins, the single ring service being used. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Smith, organist of the church.

Miss Kress was prettily gowned in orchid georgette over white tulle, with hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Irene Kress, her sister, was bridesmaid. Little Misses Bernice Kress and Ruth Wilson were the flower girls and carried baskets of pink rose petals. Miss Helen Todd was the ring-bearer.

During the service Mrs. William Selfirth of Patterson, New Jersey, sang a solo. The best man was George Milken and the ushers were Carl Klier and Ralph Manahan.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Kress home for the relatives and close friends. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, plants, and palms. A buffet lunch was served. Immediately after the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Dutton left for a wedding trip to Lake Winnepesaukee, New Hampshire. They will be at home at Andover street, Lawrence, after the first of September.

The Egyptian Pageant and Bazaar

On October 2, 3, and 4, at the Town Hall, an Egyptian pageant and bazaar will be given by the workers of the South Church.

The general scheme is to reproduce a street scene in Cairo, Egypt, like the Muski Bazaar, and to provide evening pageants besides many features of Egyptian life. There will be a dozen booths with merchants and street vendors in costume. Donkeys and a camel of special importation will be present.

At the matinees on Friday and Saturday afternoons characteristic customs of Egyptian life will be shown.

On Thursday evening, there will be a pageant of ancient Egypt.

On Friday evening, the drama of Howard Carter finding the famous King Tutankhamen will be shown.

On Saturday evening, the crowning event of the pageant of Joseph and Moses with the Children of Israel, will be given.

The general committee consists of Miss Anna W. Kuhn, Mrs. Frank T. Carlton, and Miss Kate Jenkins.

LOCAL NEWS NOTES

Plans are about completed for the big lawn party for the benefit of the Fraternal building association on the playstead Thursday evening, August 14, and every effort is being made for one of the biggest and best outdoor events of the year. A meeting of the general committee was held Monday evening when reports were made by the various members and the final meeting at which every member is requested to be present will be held in the Fraternal building next Monday night.

The lawn party is under the auspices of the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, Clan Johnston and Ladies auxiliary, Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters. Much preliminary work has been done by these organizations and the various tables will be well laden with articles which will include domestic and fancy goods, aprons, candy, cake and home-cooked food, hot dogs, tonics, and ice cream.

A feature of every fair is the grab bag, whether it is known by that name, parcel post, or fish pond. There is an element of chance attached to it and the public is always willing to take a chance. There will be plenty of chances, but always a return on the money invested. The bundles contain prizes for all.

Mrs. James Coates of Clan Johnston Auxiliary is in charge of this attraction and will have a well provisioned table. Contributions for the grab will be gratefully received.

Another attraction which the committee announces, will be the dancing from 8:30 to 11:45. William J. Orr of Garfield Lodge, K. of P., will be supervisor and censor.

The grounds will be brilliantly illuminated, the lighting arrangements being in charge of Fred Adams. The general committee of which Walter Buxton is chairman, includes Fred Westcott, Mrs. George J. York, Mrs. Samuel R. Harris, Mrs. Horace Eaton, Donald D. Laurie, George Brown, William A. Stevens, William J. Orr.

Next Monday night on the Playstead from seven until everything is sold. Fraternize with the Fraternals and help in a worthy cause.

Armenian Girl Happy to Be in America

The many Andover friends of Miss Araxie Koundakjian, the protégée of the A. P. C. sorority of the South church will be interested to hear her impressions of this country as expressed in the following letter written to Rev. and Mrs. E. Victor Bigelow:

Aug. 4th, 1924

Dear Rev. and Mrs. E. Victor Bigelow:—

Good-day to you. Did you expect to hear from me? I presume not. Anyhow I always thought and loved to write you but somehow unremembered and nameless circumstances became an obstacle to such a desire of mine. 'Tis Monday morning and I am determined to write you some lines and tell you how I am getting on in New York.

I can't help recalling the lovely reception I had the privilege and pleasure of attending and the loving impressions I gathered from you all. After the tempestuous days of detention that beautiful evening was like a sweet, rosy dream over the calm sea. I have been always wondering if that evening I acted quite humanely. Nothing seemed to be real then. Nevertheless my next visit will not be so. I have found myself, and I am actually conscious of being in America. Some friends in New York often ask me as what I thought of America—when I received such an unexpected welcome. Honestly, had I been deported, I am sure dear friends would have spoken not a word of complaint against America, despite I would have faced the deportation willingly, because the law and justice demanded so. Nevertheless I longed to be admitted, and I always appreciate the privilege of having been so. I expect to be at Andover on the 23rd of August.

I can hardly wait nineteen days more—when I'll have the pleasure of seeing all the Andover friends I love.

I liked New York. But as a matter of fact I would not like to be always here—partly because I am afraid lest I forget the hardships, exile and confinements of the past and devote myself to too much amusement. I don't think I shall ever fall into such a temptation, still I may, because I am a human being. I must always recall that even today there are thousands of girls of my age who are being kept at Arabic and Turkish homes as harems—thousands of men, women and children who are drinking the cup of woe, sorrow, hardship, exile, even massacre. No, no, I must not forget these. Did you hear that the Greek government is deporting the Armenians from Greece? Hope they won't touch mother as she is living at the American Farm. But my heart pains for those people.

It is being planned that I may study Sociology at the Columbia University and work in the International House where uncle is the Secretary in General. The House is being erected on the Hudson river near the Grant's Tomb. My eyes always rest on the inscription of the tomb, "Let us have Peace," and the inscription on the International House, "That Brotherhood may prevail." Both impress me so deeply. I am sure I'll enjoy my work in such a House.

Hope you are both well. Had such a cool summer—never made hot. Hope Andover is so too.

Hoping this letter will find you both well and that I'll see you soon, I remain,

Very sincerely yours,

ARAXIE KOUNDAKJIAN

I hope you won't mind the informality of the letter.

Wedding

MUTR - MILLS

The home of Joseph Hanson of 210 Lawrence street, Lawrence, was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday morning at 9.30 o'clock when Miss Mary Muir, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Muir of Ipswich became the bride of James O. Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mills of Lochee, Scotland. About twenty-five relatives and friends were present at the ceremony.

Mrs. Edward Hughes of Maine was the matron of honor, while William Thompson of Cambridge was best man.

The bride was beautifully attired in white and wore a veil. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

The matron of honor was prettily gowned in a green canton crepe dress and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frederick A. Wilson, pastor emeritus of the Free church of Andover. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Joseph Hanson.

A wedding breakfast was served following the ceremony. Many beautiful presents were received.

The bride and groom left for Old Orchard beach, Me., on a wedding trip, after which they will reside at 210 Lawrence street, Lawrence.

The bridegroom formerly resided at the home of his brother on Oak street, Ballardvale.

OCEAN'S ONLY PRECIOUS GEM

The Pearl Is Usually an Insignia of Aristocracy, a Family Heritage.

Washington.—"Recent sale of a string of pearls for a reported price of more than eleven million francs serves to recall that the pearl is a paradox among precious gems," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The familiar figure of speech, 'casting pearls before swine,' is no more violent contrast than the fact that a pearl is originated by a parasite.

"As one writer says: 'The ornament associated in all ages with beauty and riches is nothing but the brilliant sarcophagus of a worm.'

"Certain gems are affected by the newly rich, and sometimes are associated with vulgar display. Not so the pearl—it usually is the insignia of aristocracy, a family heritage above price. Yet a cross-section of a pearl shows it to be structurally just like the humble onion!

Limestone Deposit.

"In the language of the chemist pearls are 'calcareous concretions of peculiar luster, produced by certain mollusks.' In everyday language, pearls are formed in certain oysters when the oyster secretes and deposits around foreign particles, usually parasites, layer after layer of a limestone substance.

"If this deposit, known as nacreous matter, is spread over the inside of the shell 'mother-of-pearl' is formed; if it is formed on a 'hump' of the shell a 'button pearl' is the result; but if it is built around a parasite 'running loose' as it were, in the soft part of the mollusk, then a genuine spherical or a pear-shaped pearl is made.

"Now it would occur to an ingenious-minded person that since an oyster tends to protect itself against foreign bodies by exuding nacreous substance around them that the oyster could be encouraged to make pearls to order just as bees are inveigled into making honey. Linnaeus, famous Swedish naturalist, proved to the Western world that insertion of tiny particles in oysters was equivalent to planting pearls but, as with so many of our latter-day 'inventions,' the Chinese had anticipated him by many centuries.

"For generations the 'culture' of pearls was a staple industry of several villages near Tai-Tsung, China. In early spring the 'pearl growers' would collect river mussels, open their valves with a bamboo stick and insert foreign bodies therein. These were placed in shallow pools, nourished by excrement, and after the lapse of months, sometimes of years, the mussels were collected, the pearls extracted, and the soft parts eaten.

"Sometimes the tiny insertions would be in the shape of an image and the result would be a pearl fashioned after the matrix. Among the most remarkable of these oyster art objects were the sitting Buddhas, specimens of which are on display in the British museum.

"India is the world's treasure-house of pearls and the choicest collections of them are owned by native rulers.

A Shawl of Pearls.

"The Gakwar of Baroda has a shawl made of 100 rows of pearls with a tassel of pearls tipped with emeralds. His highness possesses what probably is the most valuable jewel ornament in all the world—a shawl of pearls, ten feet long, six feet wide. This shawl, or rug, literally is woven of strings of pearls and its center and border are set with diamonds. It is worth several millions of dollars.

"A necklace of eight strings of pearls, which are said to be the finest specimens in India, and also worth millions, is owned by the rajah of Dholpur.

"Pearls too tiny for commercial use are known as 'seed pearls.' In India these are ground up, and because of their fine content, chewed with betel nut. The Romans, who will recall, though they prized pearls as ornaments, flavored their wine with powdered pearls.

"The coasts of Ceylon and India are the classic homes of the pearl, in later years the South Sea Islands, Australian waters, the Gulf of California and the Caribbean have yielded pearls.

"The adventures of the pearl fisheries—the India divers who go armed with spears to fight the sharks and the South Sea women divers who anoint their bodies with oil before they make their plunges—offered fascinating chapters of human custom. But that is another story."

Thirty-Year-Old Will

Dayton, Ohio.—A will thirty years old was admitted to probate the other day by Judge Harry N. Routzahn. It was the will of Mrs. Tamzin H. Lehmman, No. 33 South Bell street, who died recently, and it left her $6,000 estate to her husband, Eugene B. Lehmman, and their son, Howard. The will was dated June 27, 1894.

Doesn't Need Brains

Chicago.—There's no sense in Iowa. It's been said by a billion or so bachelors and now it's a proved scientific fact. Prof. F. T. Rogers of the University of Chicago is the authority for it. He excised the thinking part of the brains of 200 pigeons and found the billing and cooing went on just as before—until the pigeons died.

Largest Aerial Photographing Ever Attempted.

Washington.—The largest aerial photographic mapping project attempted by any country is now under way in Texas and it is expected that when the work has been completed there will have been photographed 10,000 square miles. The time required in which to take the photographs, develop and fit them together into one large map is estimated at three months. This work is being done by the photographic section of the air service of the army.

Major Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, believes the making of maps is the most important peace-time work in which that service can be engaged, and says that these pictures are projects on which also the corps of engineers and United States geological survey are working. The importance of the enterprise may be grasped when one considers the element of time and the great cost to the country of the work. By aerial photography the saving in time is estimated at 75 per cent and 50 per cent in the cost of the survey.

Many Requests Received.
The office of the chief of air service is receiving many requests from governors and other officials of state, including counties, asking that the services of the photographic section of the air service be utilized in state and county survey work.

Projects on which the army is now engaged include a map of Indiana and of Chicago and vicinity, 1,500 square miles. This work is being done by the army photographic section stationed at Chanhute field, Ill.

The men at Scott field, Mo., are making a 500-mile map of a section of Missouri, co-operating with the United States geological survey and the corps of engineers. Approximately 1,000 square miles of the Missouri river is being taken from Kansas City to St. Louis. Air section photographers from Fort Riley, Kans., are mapping 500 square miles in the vicinity of St. Joseph, Mo., working with the United States geological survey.

The air photographers also are co-operating with the corps of engineers and United States geological survey in Arizona, California, Hawaii and the Philippines.

The crew of the planes doing this work consists of a pilot and an observer, the latter expert in making map pictures. The officers are selected from those who have completed courses in experimental work conducted at the air station in Dayton, Ohio.

Work for This Year.

General Patrick expects to photograph 30,000 square miles during the current fiscal year. It is the plan to make a picture map of the whole United States and it has been estimated it will take from five to eight years to complete it.

The photographic sections of the air service are distributed throughout the country as follows: Fort Bliss, Texas; Langley field, Va.; Bolling field, D. C.; Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala.; Chanhute field, Chanhute, Ill.; Wilbur Wright field, Dayton, Ohio; Mitchell field, Long Island; Fort Riley, Kansas; Crisley field, Calif.; Scott field, St. Louis, Mo.; Kelly field, Texas; Post field, Fort Sill, Okla.; Lake field, Hawaii; France field, Panama Canal zone and the Philippine Islands.

49 Operations in

2 Years, His Record

Philadelphia.—Forty-nine blood transfusions within two years is the record of Charles Donnelly of Locust Gap, Pa., who is puzzling physicians in Jefferson hospital, where he is suffering from anemia. Donnelly submitted to the first operation in September, 1922, and since then has had a transfusion every two weeks.

His brothers, Frank, John, Joseph and Thomas, make periodical trips to the hospital, each time furnishing blood for their brother.

Donnelly said he was growing weaker since the last transfusion a few weeks ago and that he needed more blood. He said that besides his brothers, several students had offered to give their blood.

Motor Horn on Carriage

Livens Belgrade Streets

Belgrade.—On all two-horse open carriages which here take the place of taxicabs, automobile horns have replaced the shrill yell of the driver as he tears through the streets, and all because of a young American.

He came here to take over an automobile agency and found an oversight of horns. Some time later, curiously enough, the city authorities passed an ordinance compelling horse vehicles to be equipped with these signals. The American is happy and so is the populace, because the constant shriek of the horns gives the city an appearance, or rather sound, of bustling modernity.

Campaign Costs Quarter

Davenport, Iowa.—Twenty-five cents made up the campaign expense account of H. Earl Fries, who won the Republican nomination for constable here against a field of seven candidates, he has announced. His itemized statement showed that the money was spent for an ice cream cone, a bottle of soda water and a package of cigarettes.

Only at the Top

Some of our eastern visitors seem to have made up their minds at home not to be impressed by the wonders of California. A suspicious old lady from New Jersey had literally "turned up her nose" at everything she saw in the state, but found it difficult in the presence of the big trees of the Calaveras grove. However, she did the best she could. "Aren't they high!" her niece exclaimed. "Only at the top," said the old lady.

Must Pay

Looting the public seems to have developed into a national pastime but the guilty fall hard when justice overtakes them. A man who steals from the treasury of his health is just as guilty as the fellow who dishonestly secures wealth and the inexorable laws of nature will much more certainly run him down.

Women's Feet Deformed

Ninety-nine pairs of women's feet out of a 100 are horribly deformed by the wearing of high-heeled shoes, says Sir Hubert Barker, the famous manipulative surgeon, of London, who avers that he has seen in the course of his work as a bonesetter more women's feet than any other person in the world.

A New "Profession"

A "curious calling" is that of one New York woman who earns a living by pawing and redeeming the belongings of other women who are in need of ready cash but who do not like to be seen visiting the pawnshop. The "broker" collects a small percentage on each transaction.

Common Sense

"Common sense, in a rough, dogged way, is technically sounder than the special schools of philosophy, each of which squints and overlooks half the fact and half the difficulties in its eagerness to find in some detail the key to the whole."—George Santayana.

Can Hear Feather Fall

The noise made by the fall of a feather can be heard by means of that wonderful invention, the microphone, which is so marvelously attuned that with its aid one can hear a tiny bit of tissue paper quite distinctly as it alights on a table.

Superstitious

Actresses, as a rule, are very superstitious. A very lucky omen is for a dab of curative grease-paint to get accidentally smeared on the teeth while "making-up" the lips. She wipes it off most carefully and lovingly.

Loaded

It may not be possible wholly to eliminate biting and chewing from the noble game of football, but at least the practice of filing the teeth before each game should be stopped.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Eggs of the Lobster

A female lobster will lay from 3,000 to 75,000 eggs, according to its size and age. The eggs are glued to the under surface of the body and are carried about for ten months before hatching.

A Sure Cure

A certain lonesome (also cynical) man says he cures himself of wanting someone to talk to by listening for fifteen minutes to the conversation of people who have someone to talk to.

Perfect

To feel much for others and little for ourselves; to restrain our selfish, and exercise our benevolent affections, constitutes the perfection of human nature.—Adam Smith.

England's Manors

Is there room enough in all England for all the manors and country seats that have been described in British novels? Wouldn't their demise overlap?

Forms in Poetry

Oh, rest assured that there are no stereotyped forms of poetry. It is a vital power and may assume any guise and take any shape.—Henry Timrod.

A Real Disaster

First Hobo—"Good 'evins! 'Ere's a nice go!" Second Hobo—"Wot's up now?" First Hobo—"This year's champagne vintage is a failure."—Punch.

Prunes Redeemed

Prunes suffer under undeserved calumny. To 3 cents' worth of prunes add 20 cents' worth of clotted cream and they are redeemed.

Clear as Mud

Said a lawyer in addressing the court, "If this argument is not clear, your honor, I have another that is equally conclusive."

Like a Thunderstorm

A big knockdown-and-dragout argument is like a thunderstorm. There are mutterings and growlings for long afterward.

Put You at Ease

Most to be envied is that good breeding that puts everyone at ease. Multitudes of women are like that.

The Difference

If we think the man means it, a compliment is commendation; if we think he doesn't, it's flattery.

SUMMER COLORS NOW ARE WORN BY OCEANS

Preference for Blue With Foamy White Ruffles.

Washington, D. C.—"The much-traveled Atlantic is putting on its usual color show for the summer tourist. It is exhibiting a decided preference for blue, with soft foamy white ruffles. Sometimes it is wearing sage greens, deep indigo, or royal purple.

"Globe trotters will find the Mediterranean and the Caribbean tricked out in sapphire blue, the Red sea in varying shades of henna, the Yellow sea in beige and tan, the Antarctic in olive green and the shallows of the Gulf of Mexico in a soft turquoise," according to a bulletin issued from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"In order to put on such a pleasing display of shade and hue, the seas have summoned to their aid many and varied hosts, notable among which are warmth and cold, sunlight and shadow, sand, silt, and possible volcanic dust, salt, lime, and various and sundry kinds of diatoms and algae.

"Absolutely pure water is a clear blue color because the blue rays of sunlight are not absorbed by the water as the red rays are. Thus the open ocean seems intensely blue. Distilled water has a greenish cast due to the impurities which still remain after the distillation. This makes it clear why the shallow water in bays and estuaries is green or yellowish green. One explanation of the olive-green of the ocean in the vicinity of the South pole is that it contains enormous quantities of diatoms in suspension.

"When a Gray Gown Is Worn. Sometimes the ocean wears a gray gown, but that usually happens when the clouds shut out the sunlight and then in respect for the grim aspect of the frowning skies it subdues the tones of its garment.

"Two factors contribute largely to the blueness of the Mediterranean; there are few large rivers, which ordinarily bring enormous quantities of impurities, flowing into it, and there is a constant stream of salty water pouring into it from the Atlantic ocean through the Strait of Gibraltar. It is said by some oceanographers that the blue of sea water bears a direct ratio to its saltness. As an example of this the band of tropical waters extending about thirty degrees on each side of the equator, where there is tremendous evaporation under a blazing sun, is cited. It is true that these waters are very salty and an exquisite saure in color. On the other hand, the Arctic and Antarctic waters, which are cold and less salty, are vivid green.

"The Yellow sea derives its golden tints from the sediment brought to it by the Yellow river and several other streams rising near the desert areas in western China. Scientists also believe that the billions of minute living organisms found in its waters helped give it its name.

A Yellow River in the Atlantic

"In January, 1906, a peculiar phenomenon was observed in the Atlantic ocean. Running parallel with the warm clear blue waters of the Gulf stream from Cape Florida to Cape Hatteras, there was a yellow river three miles wide. It lasted for a few weeks and then faded away into the surrounding ocean. Some cataclysm on the face of the deep, probably of volcanic origin, had evidently set this yellow stream in motion.

"The dull reddish tint of the Red sea is imparted to it by millions of microscopic algae. A host of the minute Dinoflagellata sometimes will redden the ocean for miles.

"The lovely blue of the waters surrounding the coral islands of the South seas, which have long been famous in song and story, is said to be due to the calcium carbonate which is held in solution.

"The degree of penetration of light into water is a contributing factor in the color of various bodies of water. The Saguenay river, a tributary of the St. Lawrence from the north, is somber and impressive because its waters seem almost black. It winds through high hills which shut out the light and its bed is cut 900 feet deeper than that of the river into which it flows.

"In 1901, the sea off the California coast turned almost black, the waters of Santa Cruz bay becoming particularly inky, but no satisfactory explanation has ever been offered of the occurrence."

Dixie Court Says Wife Still Owes Obedience
 Montgomery, Ala.—The age-old marriage row containing the word "obey," was given an interpretation with "teeth" by the Alabama court of appeals when it upheld in effect the right of a husband to object to his wife's employment of adventitious aids to her supposedly natural beauty.

It is the imperative duty of a man's wife to obey, the court held. The wife in question had curled her hair against the expressed wish of her husband. In rendering the opinion, the court also decided it not only was the right but the duty of the husband to fix the domicile of his children, irrespective of the mother's wishes.

Spoiled the Dinner

An unexpected visit of some relatives threw a North side home into a flurry in an attempt to produce a very tempting dinner for the hungry guests. As the call for dinner came, the smallest member of the family ran to the dining room and seeing the chicken, which was the crowning glory of the feast, broke out with: "Oh, mother, is that the chicken that had the broken leg?"—Columbus Dispatch.

Protect the Child

Exposing a child to any form of contagion so that he may have it and be over with it is just as sensible and reasonable as to hold his finger in the fire so that he will henceforth know that fire burns. There is no disease that children "have to have" and the older a healthy child grows the less likely is he to suffer from common contagion.

Where Women Are Barred

According to the census there are 35 occupations of the total number of listed occupations in which no women are found, while there is but one occupation that is without men. The last enumeration even listed 250 men as chambermaids and 11 men as nursemaids. Only one woman was listed as a butler.

The Swamp Angel

The "Swamp Angel," was an eight-inch Parrott cannon, so-called by the federal soldiers, that was used in the siege of Charleston, S. C. It burst August 22, 1863, and was sent to Trenton, N. J., where it now occupies a granite base on the corner of Perry and Clinton streets.

Modern Touch in Caravans

All the better-equipped caravans that trek out of Aden across the desert are provided with vacuum bottles—a modern convenience that makes the thirsty traveler independent of the oftentimes widely scattered oases.—Compressed Air Magazine.

First Paper Mill

The first paper mill in America was opened near Philadelphia in 1690. The papermaking was done by hand, and until 1756, when the pulp engine was introduced into America from Holland, the rags continued to be beaten into pulp by hand.

Would Cause Death

Physicians say that if an airplane were turned sharply at 500 miles an hour centrifugal force would throw the blood outward to the lower parts of the body, draining the brain and causing unconsciousness and death.

Helpless

In expecting everyone to sensibly obey the laws against violence and theft it must be realized that there are thousands who are infirm in both will and reason and can't sensibly do anything.

Record for Reading

Sixty-four members of a church in Council Bluffs, Ia., reading in 15-minute relays, from 6 o'clock in the morning until 11:15 at night, completed the New Testament in one day.

Must Have Security

Lloyd's, the headquarters of the world's shipping insurance, maintains an agent at every port in the world, who transmits news of all ships that pass. All candidates for membership at Lloyd's have to deposit such security for their liabilities as may be required. This security at the present time amounts to more than $20,000,000.

The Slimmest House

New York City's slimmest house is the building on the corner of Melrose avenue and 101st street in the Bronx. It is no wider than a man's outstretched hands. The lot is only 3 feet 8 inches wide and 22 feet deep, but the owner has built a two-story house on it.

CRIPPLED AT FIVE, HE WINS SUCCESS

Victim of Infantile Paralysis Becomes Noted Attorney.

Valparaiso, Ind.—Twenty-five winters ago he crawled in the snow across the campus of Valparaiso university and up the stairs to his class room. Today he still crawls, but to the courtroom to represent clients who place all their confidence in him. He has won a reputation as an attorney.

Last week J. Willard Moffett visited his old school again and crawled up the steps of the administration building to write his check toward the campaign which Valparaiso alumni are conducting to revitalize their alma mater.

Crippled for life by infantile paralysis at the age of five years, Mr. Moffett has done without the use of his lower limbs, what few men do with bodies intact. It was difficult to crawl from place to place—sometimes nearly impossible—but not once was he late to class. He was graduated from the School of Law with LL. B. degree in 1900.

Since then he has figured in some of the most important cases tried in the Supreme and Appellate courts of the state and has come to be the leading attorney of Huntington, Ind. He has repeatedly refused the honor of holding political offices because he prefers his practice.

"There is only one school where I could have received an education without embarrassment, without discouragement, and that one is Valparaiso University," Mr. Moffett says. "I want to help in making it possible for others to get this assistance."

Bottle Papers Aid in Ocean-Current Study

Philadelphia.—Not all bottles thrown into the sea are dead ones, according to Clarence Shomber, nautical expert in the United States hydrographic office at the customhouse.

Many an empty bottle, he admits, has been heaved overboard by skipper, passenger and crew alike, to gurgly its way to a salty grave.

But many others, having been thoroughly squeezed of their former contents, have had the prescribed form of bottle paper, furnished to mariners by the hydrographic office of the navy bureau, securely placed in them, been tightly corked and sealed and heaved into the deep.

These forms contain spaces to be filled in by the person throwing the bottle overboard, which show their name, vessel, date, latitude and longitude, and the date and locality where the bottle was picked up.

Instructions on the form are in eight languages and direct the finder to send the "bottle paper" to any United States consular or to the hydrographic office, Navy department, Washington.

Carried and tossed by wind, wave and current, these "bottle papers" drift thousands of miles and are not found sometimes for years. They are thrown into the water to aid scientists in the study of ocean currents. One bottle thrown over off the Florida coast was washed upon a beach in Scotland.

Referring to this incident, Mr. Shomber said: "That was just a case of a bottle trying to get home. Often these bottles show the brand they use on board the ships."

Seasickness Is Great Handicap to Soviet Fleet

Riga, Latvia.—Seasickness is a great handicap to the activities of the soviet navy, says Naval Expert Lukashovich in an article in the soviet press discussing the necessity for long-distance cruising for the Red fleet.

It is impossible, the writer says, to speak about the preparedness of the fleet unless it has had practical experience with such cruising. At present the soviet fleet is manned by young factory workers, and he expressed the belief that more than half the crew would be put out of action through seasickness in their first acquaintance with wind and waves.

In the Caspian sea during the Civil war, Lukashovich added, seasickness disabled 80 per cent of the crews, and the remainder had the greatest difficulty in saving the ships.

Chinese Girls Balk at Ancient Marriage Code

Shanghai.—All girls of China have absorbed the American notion that love is the real basis for marriage. The notion is so common in America now that it is taken for granted, but Chinese girls defy all the traditions of 8,000 years when they voice such sentiments.

But a movement has started among all of the girl students in Chinese government universities which has this notion as its basis. Miss Mo Yimin, an advanced young woman at the government university in Peking, first suggested the movement. And the readiness of Chinese girls to accept it was illustrated by the rapidity with which the movement spread to the schools of other cities, including Shanghai.

Andover's Chamber of Commerce, Its Unique Achievement

The recent bulletin of the Chamber of Commerce contains a statement so unique and so hopeful as to merit the attention and gratitude of every taxpayer in Andover. We learn that by its influence in collaboration with other towns $35,000 has been saved to Andover. This was done by forcing through the legislature a bill obliging the larger cities to pay their proportion of the cost of the tuberculosis hospital at Middleton. Without the aid of these towns our apportionment would be over $71,000. This amount we voted at our last town meeting, and issued bonds in full payment thereof. To be assured that $35,000 is to be turned back into our town Treasury through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce gives a unique justification for the existence of this new organization. It is unique in that it signals the first and only attempt within my memory, at least, when any of our town organizations or town departments deliberately undertook the task of reducing town expenditure. These organizations have been conspicuous in developing a marvelous fertility for schemes, calling for an added outlay of the people's money. But up to the present they have been as barren as the Sahara Desert in any direct attempt to increase town income. In all my years in Andover I have never known a single attempt on the part of any of our thirty or more organizations either to lessen the cost of town government or bring in new business. On the contrary, so far as I have been able to judge, the prevailing sentiment of its people has been, until recently, inhospitable toward new business.

The futile hope of restricting Andover to a purely school and residential town has been only partially relinquished. Yet Heaven knows how we could meet the increased expense of modern days without our factories. No longer can our Academies be relied upon to pay our bills. The purchases by their students are no longer confined to our local stores. This is the testimony of our dealers. Agents from New York and Boston now supply the major part of their clothing and furniture while the housing of the students is almost wholly done by the Academies themselves. Meanwhile the costs of our various town departments have tripled.

The only earthly method hitherto resorted to, to meet this tripled cost, has been on the one hand, to increase our town debt, and on the other hand, to increase our tax rate. A very simple and easy way indeed to solve our town problem. Such a method requires no phenomenal endowment or business sagacity on the part of its citizens. But the chief difficulty of this method of securing necessary funds is that it can succeed only for a time. It has a limit as fixed as the law of mathematics. Now the Chamber of Commerce evidently senses this fact, and is endeavoring to "close the barn door before the horse is stolen." They point with just pride to their endeavor whereby $35,000 has already been saved to our taxpayers. Here emerges for the first time a spirit of economy in the governance of Andover. May we not hope that this spirit will be kept uppermost in all their planning, and that they will be able not only to curtail expense, but, better still, to find new sources of revenue, by persuading new industries to locate here.

What better facilities can any town offer to a manufacturer than we have at Ballardvale? It is wholly within the province and power of the Chamber of Commerce, to draw to this strategic location one or more new industries. Let the money now in their treasury be tripled, as it easily can be, and spent in interviewing large manufacturers who plan to expand their business. There are scores of such. I met a man at Montreal who is doing just this, and he has persuaded firm after firm to locate in his city, Dallas, Texas. He said, "We had everything against us, but we have a live Chamber of Commerce and it's on the job and much has been accomplished." All this means work, but what is the Chamber of Commerce for, if not for work? Social clubs we have galore. Proponents for beautifying the town, reconstructing its highways, safeguarding traffic by modern signaling etc.—these we have in abundance, but what Andover needs is a vitalized body of citizens organized for hard work, who in place of an easy-going optimism maintains a cautious confidence. Let the same foresight and energy so signally shown by Phillips Academy at one end of our town and by the American Woolen Company at the other end now be evinced in every section of our town.

While 85 per cent of our business men take absolutely no part in town affairs, organized minorities are left to control $14,000,000 worth of our valuation. At the present time Andover has no definite policy nor fixed budget, and its town appropriations are determined largely not by the actual needs of the majority, but by the insatiable wants of the small minority and rail-roads through our town meeting on a wave of sentimentality. All this can be changed by the Chamber of Commerce when once they succeed in rousing and utilizing this vast majority of our stay-at-home, brainy, busy voters. No service they could render our town could excel this. Will they do it? We believe they will. GEO. B. FROST

(EDITOR'S NOTE. The bill obliging the larger cities to pay their proportion of the cost of the tuberculosis hospital at Middleton, was passed by the legislature largely through the concerted efforts of the Essex County Associated Board of Trades of which the Andover Chamber of Commerce has, for the last six months, been an active member. Other towns which are members of the board are Gloucester, Salem, Lynn, Beverly and Marblehead.)

A Money-Saver

Engineers at the office of the Delta Barrage in Egypt did not want to pay a man to stay at the reservoir miles away just to read the gauge. They decided to make the water report its own level by telephone. Now they just take down the receiver and the number of the gauge reading is automatically spoken to them. A float connected with the telephone does the trick.

Origin of Navel Oranges

Navel oranges, of which California sends out 8,000,000 boxes a year, were introduced into the United States from Brazil by the Department of Agriculture in 1870. The first experimental grove contained fewer than twenty trees. One of the original two trees brought here may be seen in Washington, D. C., still and the other is exhibited in California.

Experience

We spend about one-third of our lives in sleep and another third in play or recreation. A considerable portion of the remaining one-third is spent in eating. If we then indulge in the luxury of having a few contagious diseases there is little wonder that poverty overtakes so many of us.

HANDICAP TOURNAMENT

First Round to Be Played by August 13
—Clark With Handicap of Half-Fifteen Defeated by Simmers

The drawings for the Annual Shawsheen Village Handicap Tennis Tournament have been made and play started on Monday last. All matches in the first round must be played by August 13. Matches not completed by this date will be defaulted. Entry fees are payable at the Balmoral Spa. Players drawn against each other must make reservations for courts for the first and second round. Courts for the semi-finals and finals will be taken care of by the committee.

The members of the committee in charge of the tournament are: Henry J. Simmers, Howard O. Frye, Charles Wansker, Roy W. Hall.

One match has been played between B. Clark and H. Simmers which ended in an easy victory for Simmers 6-3, 6-1. Clark had a handicap of half-fifteen.

The drawings in the first round are:

Shawsheen Makes Bid for Honors

At the Scotch Caledonian athletic meet at Roxbury, Saturday, the Arlington Mill five-a-side soccer team was eliminated in the first round of Clan Stewart by two goals and one corner to one goal.

Shawsheen went one better than this by defeating J. & P. Coates team in a close contest by one corner kick to nothing. The Shawsheen five after getting the best of the Coates, jumped into a slight favorite, but the unexpected happened when Clan Stewart got the better of the Indians by one goal and one corner to one goal.

SWEDEN CARES FOR WAYWARD CHILDREN

New Law Requires State Be Given Their Custody.

Stockholm.—Compulsory removal of wayward or depraved children from their homes into public custody, and subsequent supervision up to the age of eighteen, is provided for in a new law for the care of children which has just been passed by the riksdag.

The law further provides for public care of children who are found to be exposed to undesirable influence and in danger of becoming depraved.

Children removed from their homes by government inspectors and matrons in compliance with this law are placed in government institutions, or in good private homes in the country, where they receive expert training and can grow up in a healthful surroundings.

Social service of a similar sort has been carried on in the cities of Sweden, especially Stockholm, for many years by municipal and state boards, who place the children in desirable homes far out in the country, and pay an annual compensation to these homes. In many cases a strong bond of affection grows up between these waifs of the slums and their foster parents, which culminates in legal adoption.

Under the new law every city and parish will have a special board for the care of children, including local pastors and teachers as permanent members, while inspectors will travel all over the country for the purpose of observing and controlling individual development. Thousands of country homes receive the poor children of the city as guests during the summer and send them back to their homes with cheeks round and rosy.

Nation-wide and energetic philanthropic work also is carried on by the Swedish society "Save the Children," the campaign culminating in an annual Children's day, when large amounts are raised to provide summer vacations in children's colonies by the seaside, and in some cases on islands specially reserved.

Philippines in Quake Belt, Scientist Warns

Manila.—That Manila may at almost any time be visited by an earthquake, such as destroyed Yokohama last September is the warning given by Father Roque Ruano, professor of physics and engineering in the University of Santo Tomas, who has just returned from a visit in Japan, where he studied the effect of earthquakes in that country.

"The Philippines lie in the same seismic zone as does the earthquake region of Japan, and conditions in Manila are analogous in many respects to those found in Yokohama," said Father Ruano. "The same subsoil that is found in Yokohama is found here and building construction is practically identical."

The professor recommends that a committee of geologists and scientists study the earthquake regions of the Philippines and make a report in order to impress upon the people the necessity of preparing for a severe quake at any time.

McMasters to Play with Shawsheen

President George M. Wallace of the Shawsheen A. A., announced recently that Billy McMasters, star outside left of the Fore River Shipbuilders of the Industrial Soccer league has signed a contract to play with the Shawsheen eleven next season.

Shawsheen is also negotiating with an English second leaguer and news of his signature to a Shawsheen form may be announced any day.

Sing Sing Has Largest Roster in Its History

New York.—Warden Lewis E. Lawes is about ready to hang the "S. R. O." sign on the Sing Sing door. With 1,447 state guests occupying these quarters, said to be the most choice of all the country's prisons, room is left for but a few more. It is the largest roster the penitentiary has had in eight years.

The crowded condition will not affect the persons now under Mr. Lawes' supervision, but it will be hard on the offenders who are sentenced to Sing Sing from now on, for the trip will be continued from the Ossining establishment to the less popular Clinton prison at Dannemora, where privileges are fewer, visitors rare and discipline comparatively severe.

One Family Owned Land in Quebec Since 1629

Quebec, Canada.—The Arts, Science and Letters society recently sent a questionnaire to the various parishes of Quebec and Montmorency, seeking information about old families. The results received were quite interesting. One family, that of Ismael Beaudet, remained on the same land at Charlesbourg since 1629; the family of Hector Laliberte of St. Jean, Island of Orleans, is the largest in Montmorency county, consisting of 20 children, all living. Joseph Gagnon of St. Pierre, Island of Orleans, has the largest number of living descendants with 210. Special diplomas will be forwarded to these families by the society.

6,000 Miles to Tie Knot

San Francisco.—Anxious to keep a promise made to his son long before the boy was old enough to think seriously of marriage, the Rev. Thomas Angus Morrison of Glasgow arrived here from Scotland to officiate at the wedding of the son, Capt. Thomas Fraser Morrison, and Miss Margaret Mollesh.

Brush Factory Now Leading the League
—Shawsheen A. A. to Play South Groveland Tomorrow

Shawsheen Mills forfeited to the Brush Factory Monday night 9-0, and the latter team is now leading the league. Manager Mosher's team failed to show up and the umpire declared a forfeit.

The Shawsheen A. A. has arranged a Saturday afternoon schedule for the month of August and their opponents will be the strong South Groveland team at Balmoral field, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Arrangements are being made for August 16, when it is expected that the General Electric of Lynn will visit Shawsheen Village and both tennis and baseball contests are planned.

On Saturday, August 23, the return game with the Salem, N. H., team will be played. The Salem team won last Saturday 11 to 5, but Shawsheen expects to reverse the decision at the second meeting. The game will be played on a real diamond and both teams will be on equal terms as far as grounds are concerned.

The last game of the season will be on Saturday, August 30, when Shawsheen will visit Tewksbury and play the doctors of the state institution.

No Necessity

"Robert," said the teacher to a small pupil whose face and hands were badly soiled, "you didn't wash this morning." "No, ma'am," Robert answered. "My mother wasn't home and I didn't have to."—Life.

An Astrological Tip

According to an old astrological prediction, a girl born in March is a frivolous chatterbox, somewhat given to quarrelling, and if born in April is inconstant, not intelligent, but likely to be good looking.

Troubled Waters

Old Coonskin—"So yer had er quarrel wid yer squaw yesterday. I suppose yer mighty glad it's over." Chief Yellow Pelt—"I heap hope so. Me no go near wigwam while hell storm is ragin'."

His Mistake

Walter—"How did you order your beef, sir?" Gruffeigh—"Personally, confound you! I suppose I ought to have ordered it by mail two weeks in advance."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Curious Scottish Custom.

A curious marriage custom prevails in the little northern fishing village of Burchard, on the shores of the Moray Firth, Scotland.

If a fisherman or fishergirl is to be married, the guests do not expect a written or printed invitation to attend the ceremony. The custom is for some of the bride or bridegroom's relatives to go to the house of the invited guests (which often embraces the entire population) and shake an umbrella, at the same time remarking: "Ye ken what for."

The date, place, and time of marriage is then intimated, and the message bearer departs to shake the umbrella in the house of some other invited guest.

MEXICO IS HAVEN FOR U. S. CROOKS

Officials Below Line Ignore "Gentleman's Agreement."

Laredo, Texas.—Notwithstanding diplomatic relations between Mexico and the United States have been restored, complaint is made by Texas border officers that it is virtually impossible to obtain extradition of fugitive criminals from Mexico. Such a voluminous amount of red tape must be unraveled that almost interminable delays result.

To such a degree is this true that the formality of applying for the extradition of an offender who may have sought refuge in Mexico is seldom observed. Instead, a friendly understanding exists between the peace officers and government authorities of the border states on both sides of the international line that they will exchange fugitive criminals without legal process.

Even this agreement is not always lived up to by the Mexican authorities. It is charged here. As a matter of fact, hundreds of offenders against the law who fled to Mexico in the last few years are living in apparent security against molestation in that country. All efforts to bring about their return to the American side of the boundary have proved futile, it is declared.

No blame is attached to the Mexican government for this. The authorities of that country are too busy trying to round up a horde of domestic criminals to pay much attention to foreign refugees. During the recent revolutionary period hundreds of desperate criminals were released from prison by rebels and are today roaming over the country.

The Young Lady Across the Way

The young lady across the way says some people don't seem to realize that there's any difference between an out-and-out atheist and a mere sceptic. (B. McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
